Suggestions on Logistics and Transport for the Policy Address 2020

After due consultation from more than thirty (30) leading and sizeable companies in logistics and transport in Hong Kong and also other professional members in the Industry, the Institute as a learned and leading professional Institution furnished our suggestions on the 2020 Policy Address in relation to logistics and transport for the consideration of the Chief Executive.

Our suggestions for 2020 Policy Address on transport cover four main areas, they are:-

1. Comprehensive Transport Study;
2. Encouragement on the use of public transport;
3. Environmental sustainability and road safety;
4. Immediate measures for tackling traffic congestion.

Press Conference on Appealing with the Government for Relief Measures under Anti-Epidemic Fund 3.0

Since the outbreak of the COVID-19 in January, the epidemic has spread globally, causing economic activities into a halt and global supply chains being affected. Hong Kong as an important transit port in the region, stakeholders in the logistics industry: supply chain, transportation including land, sea & air, freight forwarding and warehousing, have all been severely impacted.

Although relief measures have been introduced by the HKSAR Government in past months and some do help reduce the financial burden of logistics operators, more relief measures are needed under the current difficult times. Hence, 12 local professional bodies in freight forwarding, transport and logistics joined the Press Conference called by Honourable Frankie Yick, Legislative Councillor for the Transport Functional

While our suggestions for 2020 Policy Address on logistics cover another four main areas, they are:-

1. Greater Bay Area;
2. Leading initiatives for development of logistics;
3. Talent management;
4. Relief measures against impacts from Covid-19.

Full copy of the submission can be found at:

<https://www.cilt.org.hk/en-us/Publication/file.aspx?id=319>

Constituency, on 13 August 2020 in appealing for further government relief measures under the Anti-Epidemic Fund 3.0.

1. Provide 2-month rental and management fee allowance;
2. Extension of the existing waiver/reduction on government fees/charges for 6 months;
3. Extension of the arrangement for interest repayment and non-repayment of principal for 6 months;
4. Extension of the six-month Employment Support Scheme, and the inclusion of employees over 65 years of age who do not have an MPF account;
5. Release of the Anti-Epidemic Fund 3.0 as soon as possible, and the former financial subsidies will be continued and to ensure subsidisation to industry sectors which have been missed in the previous two rounds of epidemic fund can be dealt with first.

Press Release:

CILT Hong Kong responded to the call from Dato' Ts Abd Radzak Abd Malek, our International President, to carry out local research and build up a local response to a series of questions relating to the COVID-19 crisis. The below two papers have been published.

→ Impact of COVID-19 on Hong Kong's Logistics Industry, CILT COVID-19 Bulletin 07 published on 15 July 2020
<https://www.cilt.org.hk/en-us/Publication/file.aspx?id=316>

The disruption of supply chains and the reduced cargo demands exacerbated by national lockdowns on the one hand, and the persistent increase in logistics costs due to fluctuating air and sea carriage capacities on the other have badly hurt the bottom line of all enterprises, and precipitated liquidity problems to many. Only a few industry sectors have been weathering the storm better than others.

Many logistics practitioners in Hong Kong will re-position themselves to exploit the opportunities emanated from the anticipated changes in supply chains in the post-COVID-19 world. On the demand side, there will be new logistics opportunities for the S.E. Asia and S. Asia markets where partnership with the local people can provide cost-effective end-to-end service deliverables. On the supply side, synergetic co-operation with industries in the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macau Greater Bay Area, supported by technologies like Block Chain and robotics, will help improve process efficiency, save cost and ultimately enhance customer experience and business sustainability.

→ Impact of COVID-19 on Hong Kong's Transport, published on 25 September 2020 CILT COVID-19 Bulletin 08
<https://www.cilt.org.hk/en-us/Publication/file.aspx?id=318>

This report briefly mentions the traffic and transport situation and the responses of our industry in meeting the COVID-19 challenge in the first half of the year. Both traffic flow at checkpoints and patronage dropped severely. The local and cross harbour traffic at checkpoints showed in the critical months of February to April reduced by about 14-22%, while that for the Lantau Link and the cross boundary points were reduced by 36-62%. On the public transport side, the average daily public transport passengers in the first five months of 2019 was 13 million. However, for the corresponding period in 2020, the figure was only 8.6 million, representing a drop of about 34%.

Measures taken by the transport operators to counter against the adverse impact brought by the COVID-19 include:

- Adjustments to service operations
- Cost saving measures
- Stringent hygiene and sanitisation measures
- Measures taken to regain passenger confidence
- Participation in research study, e.g. "Future of Mobility post-COVID", "Low-Carbon Transport, Individual Wellbeing & Planetary Health in the Era of Smart Cities & New Mobilities"

In the concluding paragraphs of the paper, areas which the transport market need to be given more thoughts were listed.

The programme uses existing data for predictive modelling to perform agile and flexible problem solving in urgent situations as well as long term strategic planning. “The innovative systems we have implemented,” said William Ma, “help us stay well ahead of market trends to take hold of future opportunities and minimise risks.”

Customer Focus

In the focus of all operations are our customer and the everlasting question how to deliver best-in-class efficiency and providing highest level of accuracy servicing our customers. In order to meet customers' requirements, Janco helps them to review and re-design their supply chain to best fit their actual needs.

Evolution and Change of Logistics Landscape

Whereas in the past, 100% of all orders from suppliers were only shipped as full container loads resulting in high storage cost at destination due to slow or no stock turn, around 20 years ago, a global trend demanding for smaller MOQ's (minimum order quantities) from manufacturers led to consolidation business. Some also refer to a Supply Chain Transformation removing the sourcing company (via Direct Sourcing), the Destination Distribution Centre, "DC", (by shifting the entire operation to the origin as a Regional DC and Retail Store (via online presence only). Winners of this evolution are platforms, parcel operators and the consumers. Become either of them to stay relevant.

Evolution and Change of Retail Landscape

With the change of retail from brick and mortar to online presence, the rules of engagement changed and market entry barriers were reduced/removed. Consumer's position is stronger than ever before and retail market changed from a push model to a pull model with the value chain starting with the consumers. Traditional retail with many shops in many countries vs. online shop without physical location shipping to many countries 24/7/365 not limited to opening hours or time zones.

Direct to consumer Ecommerce Parcel Solution

With evolution of retail landscape (from retail stores to online stores) and technology (from 1G to 5G) and related change of consumer behaviour, expectations from consumers towards retailers for faster delivery times changed the playing field completely. Direct sourcing of Retailer plus Cross-Border Direct-to-Consumer Parcel Solution is the latest step in retail and logistics evolution. Janco is a leading provider of Direct-to-Consumer Parcel Solution offering this service to direct customer and logistics companies alike.

Partnership/Synergies

Offering our services to direct customers is always the focus – in Janco we also believe that long-term growth and sustainability can only be achieved through synergies and partnership. There is no point for all parties fighting one plot of land. Instead, multiple parties (investors, land owners, technology companies and 3PLs) should come together to focus on each of their own core competencies and to create on unit; the result would be High Tech Logistics Operation with Long-term Sustainability.

CSR and Sustainability

Janco Global Logistics is a member of Janco Holdings Limited, a publicly listed company on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange (stock code: 8035). Being part of a publicly listed company, Janco Global Logistics also follows the group's guideline on corporate social responsibility aims and efforts. To further strengthen Janco's position towards sustainability, Janco joined Hong Kong's Green Council. In an effort to streamline purchases within the company, Janco changed its procurement strategy from decentralised to a centralised – not only resulting in greater savings but also in long-term sustainability through thorough supplier selection process.
